

A photograph of a variety of traditional Japanese dishes. At the top, a wooden bowl contains sliced salmon topped with shredded green onions. To its right is a small plate with tempura. Below the salmon, a wooden tray holds a mix of tempura, including what appears to be shrimp and vegetables, along with a green bitter melon. In the foreground, there are three bowls: a green ceramic bowl with a green liquid (possibly soup or tea), a smaller green bowl with a similar liquid, and a larger brown ceramic bowl filled with rice topped with a green garnish. To the right of the rice bowl is another brown ceramic bowl containing a seafood dish, possibly squid or octopus. The dishes are arranged on a white tablecloth with a subtle floral pattern.
